Yasmine McGrane of Maison Revè Named "Stylemaker" by National Magazine

Yasmine McGrane, owner of Maison Revè in Mill Valley, has been recognized for creating a new Urban Farmhouse style for the home and garden.

Celebrating her third year in business this month, Yasmine McGrane, owner of Maison Revè in Mill Valley, has been named a new "Stylemaker" by Country Home magazine in an upcoming article entitled, "Thrill of the Hunt." This popular section of Country Home is all about finding the hot new trends for the home and garden at antique markets and estate sales across the country.

The Stylemaker article sets the stage for a feature story planned for this spring in Country Home showcasing the new Urban Farmhouse style for which Yasmine and her store have become renowned. The magazine sent a photographer and crew to shoot for a week at Maison Revè, and also at her Victorian farmhouse in Sausalito.

"The magazine article will focus on how I use a lot of things from my store at home," Yasmine said. "They loved the Urban Farmhouse look, which is a blend of all the simple inspirations you might find in an old farmhouse in Provence, coupled with a modern edge and creativity to give weathered pieces a new purpose. Imagine an old trolley becoming a coffee table, clusters of sea glass bottles as table art - that sort of thing."

Celebrity has been following Yasmine lately. Her wedding last year in Mendocino will be featured in the Spring 2006 issue of Modern Bride Northern California magazine on newsstands this month. Yasmine designed her wedding to feel like a weekend among close friends and family in the countryside of Provence. Her favorite treasures from antiquing across France were used as props and accessories.

Now is a great time to stop by Maison Revè and be inspired for the holidays. Her store is filled with one-of-a-kind gifts such as the ones featured in the magazine articles. The hot sellers this year are her hand-made ornaments from Europe, vintage picture frames, knit scarves, cozy jackets and robes, and of course her vintage inspired jewelry.

"I'm all excited about the holidays," says Yasmine. "It's a great time for giving something very special to the people you love."

Maison Revè is located in downtown Mill Valley, at 11 Tarockmorton Avenue, five doors up from the Sequoia Theatre. Maison Revè is open 7 days a week through the holidays. For information call (415) 383.9700 or visit the website at: www.maisonreve.com.
